

PROTECTING OUR INDUSTRY'S FUTURE

EXHIBITION & EVENT
ASSOCIATION OF AUSTRALASIA

Risk management is a major consideration for organisers and contractors involved in building exhibitions. As an industry, there is a duty of care to ensure we are doing all we can to maintain safe work practices. Compliance with state and national legislation is vitally important.

WHY USE EEAA RSM System?

EEAA's industry Risk & Safety Management (RSM) System assists organisers and contractors to comply with venue requirements and act in accordance with legislation, and provides a significant component in maintaining a safe industry.

- Self-regulation not external intervention – industry best practice for risk & safety management
- Prevention of injury and safety for all – safe exhibitions for workers and patrons
- Comprehensive risk & safety management system – tailored for the exhibition industry
- Easy to use accreditation software tool
- Affordable $275 inc GST for a 2 year accreditation period*
- Marsh Risk Consulting Accreditation Helpline

*New members have a 6 month grace period where Risk Accreditation is included in initial Membership fees. Initial accreditation period is 2 years. Participating Members must also re-accredit every 2 years to ensure RSM System remains current.

Developed in conjunction with risk specialists, Marsh Risk Consulting, who monitor the RSM System and provide guidance during the accreditation process, EEAA's RSM system is designed to encourage companies to produce required compliance policy documents and risk assessments that comply with risk management legislation.

Whether you are a large company with comprehensive OHS policies already in place or a small business new to the industry, this RSM system offers an in-depth set of guidelines and procedures tailored to our industry and an easy to follow template for accreditation and re-accreditation. Apart from the major benefit of assisting your organisation with minimum compliance on state and national work safety legislation, member support of this system adds credibility to your organisation and the industry as a whole.

- A management system developed in consultation with all sectors of the industry – venues, organisers, and suppliers/contractors
- Assists with aligning risk & safety practices to each stage of exhibition management
- Compliance with state and national work safety legislation
- Recognition as a serious and committed industry player
- A comprehensive and easy to use software system complete with procedure guidelines, how to guides, and templates
- Cost effective marketing and management tool that has application for staff training and adds credibility to your organisation as well as a point of difference
- Accredited members are distinguished with a red RSM tick on the web directory.

EEAA's Risk and Safety Management system stands out as a valuable tool. We use it extensively for staff training and advertise our OH&S compliance in our quotations and proposal documents."

Jan van den Berg | Managing Director
Van Den Berg Design Team

For further information on how to become accredited to the EEAA RSM System please contact EEAA at memberservices@eeaa.com.au or call 02 9413 9520